1. I attended the Career Council Meeting at which our candidates for the National War College, the Senior Officers' School of the Department of State and the Harvard School of Advanced Management and Business Administration all made an excellent showing. In fact the Council gave the Office of the Deputy Director (Support) a monopoly on the Harvard Business School for calendar year 1959.

2. [REDACTED] telephoned me about Ed Saunders' trip to Latin America. He seemed to think that it might be longer than was necessary to accomplish his purpose but left the decision entirely up to me. I told him that I would look into it.
